

I have randomly assigned slots for all the final project presentations for next week. The ordering is:

Wednesday – May 1	Friday – May 3	Monday – May 6
Scott	Cameron	Therese
Meg	Mark	Miya
Emma	Cole	Anthony R
Marinda and Leo	Claudia	Jen
Lorie	John
Tyler, Anthony C and Anna	Sydney
Milla	Peter, Alex and Kaehlin
Charlie	Julie
	Natalie

I've double checked and am almost positive everyone is on this list, but if you are somehow missing, let me know pronto! More people decided to work solo than I was expecting, so we have a lot of presentations to get through. As such, some extra presentation guidelines:

1. For a solo presentation, limit your slides to only maybe 5 or less. You only have a max of 6 minutes to talk, and closer to 5 minutes would be better so you'd have time to take maybe a single question.
2. Make sure you show up to class on time. We are going to be getting going right at the start to ensure we can get through everything. Just adding up the maximum talk times comes to 56 minutes on Wednesday and Friday.
3. Practice to make sure you don't run overtime! I will be pretty strict at cutting you off if you go over, since time is at a premium.
4. To facilitate transitions between talks, please save or export your presentation as a pdf. I realize this means you can't do anything fancy with animations, but for talks of this length and simplicity it shouldn't be a huge issue. Send your pdf to me by NOON on the day of your talk and I will have them all stitched together into one long pdf so we can just run it on my system continuously with no long transitions between speakers. If you have any questions or issues with this, let me know before noon on the day of your talk! :)
5. When you are not talking, I will have a bit of a rubric that you will fill out for the speakers to give me more feedback and count as your attendance grade for the day. So do plan to show up even on the days you are not talking. Support your classmates!
6. If your assigned time does not work for you, then you are in charge of finding a group or individual to switch with (and then let me know!). I tried to be accommodating to people who had let me know in advance about a potentially conflicting time.
